LEARN ABOUT THE SERVICES YOUR COMMUNITY HAS TO OFFER

Dublin has long been considered one of the most desirable locations to live in the Bay Area. A few of the City's many attributes are good climate, suburban charm, convenient commute and the scenic beauty of the surrounding hills and valleys.

Dublin has long been known as the "crossroads" of the Bay Area. Dublin now sits at the crossroads of two major highways: Interstate 580 and Interstate 680. However, the significance of the "crossroads" dates back over two hundred years when Dublin served as the crossroads of two important stage routes – one from the Bay Area to Stockton and the other from Martinez to San Jose. The Alamilla Spring, located in the Dublin area, provided a place for travelers to change horses and freshen up before continuing their journey.

During the past twenty years, the rapidly expanding Tri-Valley area has become renowned as a place of prosperity, a center for internationally acclaimed business parks and home to some of the world's largest corporations.

The City of Dublin, located at the crossroads of the Tri-Valley area has contributed to the planned growth and forward thinking of the area. And the City continues to look ahead to expand and enhance the quality of life for members of the community.

**Much of this information has been excerpted from Virginia Bennett's book "Reflections." Copies of this book and other historical information can be found at the Dublin Library.

ABOUT THE CITY OF DUBLIN

The City of Dublin was incorporated on February 1, 1982, as a general law city. At the time of incorporation, a Council-Manager form of government was adopted. The Dublin City Council is comprised of five residents, who are elected at large. In addition, the Mayor is directly elected. The City Council is responsible for adopting legislation and establishing city policies.

The City Manager, who is appointed by the City Council, is responsible for enforcing ordinances, implementing Council policies and supervising the day-to-day operating departments.

The City of Dublin employs approximately 80 city and contract employees who serve in the following departments: Administration & Finance, Community Development, Planning, Police, Fire, Public Works, Parks & Community Service and Economic Development.

In October, 1989, city offices occupied the new award-winning Dublin Civic Center. The 53,000 square foot center houses administrative and police facilities. The Civic Center also serves as a popular regional meeting center and is the site for both permanent and temporary expositions sponsored by the Dublin Fine Arts Foundation.

In addition to the Civic Center, the City of Dublin offers many other amenities such as 56 acres of developed parkland including five neighborhood parks, one community park and community center, a swim center, an outdoor sports complex, a senior and a heritage center.

The City of Dublin is committed to high professional standards. A professional attitude encourages an objective approach to analyses of issues. Providing information and resources to customers in a friendly and helpful manner is the City's number one goal.
