LEARN ABOUT THE SERVICES YOUR COMMUNITY HAS TO OFFER

Morning Brook Farm is located in the heart of Harford County, Maryland. The area's pristine countryside and breathtaking natural surroundings, combined with its commuting convenience to Baltimore City, Baltimore County, Bel Air, and Delaware, make Morning Brook Farm an ideal place to live. Harford County, Maryland, was discovered in 1608 by famed Captain John Smith (of the Pocahontas legend). The area was mapped out and was included as part of Baltimore County. The first settlement was believed to have been established in 1622. In 1774, the area was divided and Harford County was named for Henry Harford, the son of the last Lord of Baltimore, Frederick Calvert. Fallston, originally named Little Falls, was no more than a country settlement with a few scattered homes, three stores, two shoemaker shops and a blacksmith shop in 1878. The Quaker settlement chose the name, Little Falls, because of the proximity of the falls on the nearby Little Gunpowder River to the village. Fallston was the first stop in the county of the MD & PA Railroad after it left Baltimore County on its way to York, Pennsylvania. Fallston today retains its unspoiled rural charm, but it is now balanced with commuting convenience to major areas of business and industry. At Morning Brook Farm, you can be within minutes of life's most modern conveniences and yet still feel a world away.
